Month in Review – History Center –October 2013

Article to be Published

• The Avalon History Center curator J. Angemi has had an article accepted for publishing with at least one historical journal. The Inclusive Museum has vetted and approved Mr. Angemi's article titled Lenape; The Grandfather People, for publishing in a spring addition of their journal. As a contributor Mr. Angemi will serve on a panel of history professionals in article peer review and submission. The article is also being reviewed by the William and Mary Quarterly, but has not yet been approved for printing.

Above: Selected chapters from the article.

Webinar

 Avalon History Center curator J. Angemi has created a webinar, to be held November 19th, that studies the Lenape people of southern New Jersey and beyond. This work takes an in depth review of Delaware Valley first peoples and introduces new material that has never been published before.

Collaboration & Art exhibit

 The Avalon History Center is in the process of finalizing plans for an exhibit featured by the Society of New Jersey Artist. This exhibit will feature work created by Cape May county artist and beyond. While no date is set as of yet a springtime showing is the goal.

Researchers Served

• The Avalon History Center served two specific researchers for the month of October. One dealt with the 1962 storm and the second with specific early island architecture.

Loan Return

 The Long term object loan provided by the Powhatan Renape Nation has been returned as per loan agreement. All objects were photographed and cataloged with condition reports before the return. The Avalon History Center and its staff would like to thank the Powhatan Renape Nation for the generous support and long term loans they provided.

Above: Photographs of objects before and after packing.

Civic Organizations meet at the History Center's Library Room.

• The Avalon Garden, Dune & Beach Trail initiative, and Women's Civic Club all hosted their monthly meetings at the History Center.